RE: Soil Protection Standards

Members of the State Agriculture Development Committee:

The Hunterdon County Agriculture Development Board (CADB) has a long history of supporting farmland preservation and has invested in the continuation of agriculture as a viable industry in Hunterdon County. Farmland Easements in Hunterdon County cover almost 35,000 acres at a public cost exceeding $290 million. 1,500 acres are currently in the process of preservation. 28% of the Farm Assessed acreage in Hunterdon County is permanently restricted for agricultural use.

The CADB appreciates the work done by the State Agriculture Development Committee (SADC) on the Soil Protection Standards and commends the Staff outreach in gathering stakeholder comments on the draft version. The Hunterdon CADB accepts the draft Best Management Practices as a solid foundation in protecting a valuable resource.

Hunterdon CADB respectfully requested an extension on providing comment on the Draft Standards until November 15, 2022 in order to provide time to get a full understanding of the impacts of the Standards. The summer is a busy time for Farmer and Public members of the CADB to give the review the attention it deserves. Without response to the request, Hunterdon CADB would like to offer an initial response to the draft Standards.

The CADB objects to the retrospective nature of the Soil Protection Standards as they serve to change the terms of Easements that have been previously agreed to and abided by most easement holders. Roughly half of the 458 Easements in Hunterdon are at least 15 years old. Many easements are no longer held by the original applicant and farm purchasers have made a monetary judgement of value based upon an understanding of the agreed terms. Once a landowner has signed a permanent easement the SADC should not further restrict agricultural uses. Confidence in the Preservation Program relies on landowners understanding what they are agreeing to and those terms not changing over time or with subsequent owners. The CADB is concerned that the Standards set a precedent to undermine a popular program that has been beneficial to continued viable agriculture in Hunterdon County.

The CADB would like to recommend that upon completion of the mapping stage, one full cycle of annual monitoring is allowed for landowners to meet individually with monitoring staff to review the maps and propose any amendments to the map of disturbed area. An additional period should follow this initial monitoring year for landowners to request a waiver or variation to the map. This will allow landowners to be fully invested in the program and allow the SADC and CADB ample time to review requests for waivers in a timely and educated manner.

The CADB is concerned about the increased workload on the Monitoring staff to track annual development on individual easements and accurately calculate the disturbance percentage over time.

This added monitoring aspect will increase the time required to accurately judge whether farms remain in easement compliance. As the easement grantee, Hunterdon County takes easement compliance to be a foundational element of public trust in the program.

The CADB would like to reward easement holders that pursue conservation projects with partner agencies like the Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) and Soil Conservation Districts. Conservation based projects that improve water quality, prevent flooding, or reduce erosion serve a public good and should be exempted practices from the disturbance percentage.

On behalf of the Board, thank you for your time and attention,

David Bond
CADB Chair
