RECRUITMENT:

1. Current employees are usually the best recruiters, as employees want to work with those that would contribute positively to the agency. As such, employees shall recruit and refer those that they believe to be qualified and would contribute to the progress of the agency.

2. Internships have been a productive and valuable recruitment tool. Internships allow the agency to see the potential candidate working alongside current employees. Internships serve as a tool to enable the agency to evaluate the potential candidate as to whether they would be a valuable member of the agency.

3. Educational institutions generally have a diverse population, and many students may not be aware of the career opportunities provided at an agency like the Hunterdon County Prosecutor’s Office. Participation in career fairs or programs at higher level educational institutions.

4. Participation at community events where the agency would be highly visible to the public. When the community sees agency members at public events, it provides the potential for positive interaction. Often, the community is unaware of all of the facets of the Hunterdon County Prosecutors Office. Having agency members be visible and interacting with the community opens opportunities to recruit from the community we serve.

5. Better advertising for open positions within the agency. The Hunterdon County Prosecutors Office has a Facebook page, as well as a website, where career opportunities shall be announced. Maintaining an active social media presence also helps recruit potential candidates, especially those who use social media for career networking. On applications, inquire how the applicant learned of the job opportunity.

6. In addition to posting job opportunities, the following would be useful to include with the posting:

- a. Salaries and benefits
- b. Description of duties and expectations
- c. Training requirements
- d. Qualifications (educational level, skills)

REVIEW AND EVALUATION:

1. The Chief of Detectives, or his designee, shall conduct an analysis of the Recruitment Plan annually. The following shall be reviewed:
 - a. Number of applicants vs. the number of targeted applicants from underrepresented groups.
 - b. Number of appointments vs. the number of targeted appointments from underrepresented groups
 - c. Events attended by members of the agency wherein members are engaged in any level of recruitment
 - d. Reviewing how applicants learned of job opportunities and then evaluating the effectiveness of how job opportunities are announced (i.e. Facebook, website, etc.)
 - e. Redesigning the Recruitment Plan if necessary
